

WILLKIE LABELS NEW DEAL AS A GOV'T OF CYNICS

Says Government Is Pushing
The Nation "Closer and Closer To War"

SOUNDS A NEW THEORY

Asks Who Got Country Into
The Middle of the Stream

By International News Service
ENROUTE GRAND RAPIDS, Mich.,
Oct. 1.—Labeling the New Deal a government of cynics who are pushing the nation "closer and closer to war" and preaching cowardice, confusion and despair, Wendell Willkie today carried his campaign through Michigan
urging defeat of the "man who put us in the middle of the stream."

Coming into Michigan yesterday, the Republican candidate developed that new angle which he played heavily in his speeches of the day.

To his attack on the theory of the "indispensable man" he added the observation that England in her great crisis replaced the government of Chamberlain with that of Churchill.

"There has been a lot of talk about the danger of changing administrations in an emergency. The closer Mr.
Roosevelt gets to war, the more people say we ought not to change horses in the middle of the stream."

"Well, what are we doing in the middle of the stream? Who put us there? The man who got us in is not the right one to get us out."

Ask For 300 Volunteers For Red Cross Sewing

The production chairman of Bristol
Branch, American Red Cross, Mrs.
Archibald Morris, is desirous of having women of Bristol volunteer for the sewing of 300 garments now at headquarters, 120 Mill street.

The winter is approaching and the need for garments is more and more imperative in the war-stricken area.
Recent information from Poland showed that the people are greatly appreciative of the efforts of American Red Cross in alleviating the suffering for lack of clothes in that country.

It was interesting that garments marked with the Southeastern Chapter label were noted by Americans in charge of the distribution, and expression of joy in possession of layettes was heard on all sides.

Mandolin Club Accepts Engagement for Numbers

An invitation to give special numbers at the Americanism meeting of the Ninth District American Legion
during the winter season has been accepted by the mandolin club of Auxiliary of Jesse W. Soby Post. The date of this affair will be early in 1941.

The club which now has 16 to 18
members, is under direction of Leon Cherubini, Bristol.

The roster is open to additional players, whether members of the Auxiliary or not. Rehearsals are held each Monday evening at eight o'clock in the Memorial House.

EDGELY, Oct. 1.—The Ladies Auxiliary of Headley Manor Fire Company will hold a meeting tonight at eight o'clock.

REBUILDING FIRE STATION AT PERKASIE

Apparatus Room To Be Enlarged and Provide Facilities
For Police Station

TO COST ABOUT $1500

PERKASIE, Oct. 1.—Improvements to the Perkaskie Fire Station are now underway and will be made with W.
P. A. labor and the Fire Company will furnish the material.

An application for approximately $3000 in W. P. A. labor was approved several months ago after Borough Council took title to the building to qualify the project as a municipal venture. The material that will go into the proposed improvement will cost approximately $1500.

Chief of the proposed improvements will be changing of the floor level of the former council chambers. The plans provide for a drop in this floor of approximately four feet to the level of the present apparatus room. With its added space there will be ample room for all of the fire company's equipment.
Since the housing of the new pumper in June, one piece of apparatus has been kept in the Stover Feed House, on north Seventh street.

The heater in the building will be dismantled and moved and the building will be heated from a steam line run direct from the borough power plant to the fire house. A new stair case will be built, a new roof put on the building, a new fire escape constructed and the entire building will be repainted. The rear room on the first floor will remain virtually intact and will be used as the borough police station. A new floor will be laid in this room.

According to plans, the rebuilding program, exclusive of the roof and painting, will be completed in 60 days.

Softball Team Is Guest at Dinner

Members of Bristol Methodist Church softball team last night were given a dinner in recognition of the successful season recently concluded. The team won 22 out of a possible 27 games and captured the championship honors of the Lower Bucks County Church Softball League. The dinner was given by the Fellowship group of the Bristol Methodist church. It was held in the dining hall of the church and was served by the members of the choir.
Approximately 60 participated. Members of the team were presented with gold softballs.

The members of the team include:
William Ludwig, Arthur Grimes, David
Ludwig, William Moss, Morris Carter,
Robert Warwick, Eugene Mount,
George McCay, George Molden, Francis
Hampton, Herbert Yates, Elmer Hampton, Harry Waltz, George Hampton, Francis Grimes and Leslie Moss.

The team on September 13th was presented with the pennant for 1940.
At the conclusion of the serving of the menu there were vocal numbers given by Miss Charlotte Rathke and Percy G. Ford. The invocation was by the Rev. J. C. Zook. Mr. Ford directed the singing of a number of selections
by the group.

Doron Green, president of the Board of Trustees of the Church, acted as toastmaster. Mr. Green gave a resume of the history of baseball in Bristol.
The Rev. Wilbert Fite spoke to the boys and assured them that the men of the church would give them their undivided support.

The guest-speaker of the evening was Lena Blackburne, who as far back as 1907 played on the old Bristol baseball team which played at Persimmon Park. Blackburne is now on the staff of Connie Mack as a scout and two years ago managed a team in Trenton,
N. J.

Blackburne told numerous amusing instances of his career, several of which occurred while he was a player on the Bristol team. He told of his trips back and forth on the ferryboat and how in those days the players dressed in a barn, which was not equipped with shower baths.

He advised the boys to always be in condition for any job which they undertake. He told them to take the tough knocks and to leave cigarettes alone while in uniforms. He suggested that they practice self-reliance and not depend on others for aid and assistance in what they desired to undertake.

Leslie Moss, manager of the team,
also spoke briefly.

Russia to Be Merely "Sympathetic Spectator"

Berlin, Oct. 1.—Instead of an active military participation in the Italo-German-Japanese Axis alliance, Soviet Russia is slated for a role as mere "sympathetic spectator" in the totalitarian war theatre, I. N. S. was informed today.

She may, however, sign a non-aggression pact with Japan—a possibility that is being openly encouraged by Germany and Italy.

Best informed Berlin quarters deprecated speculation in European capitals to the effect that Russia will sign up with the Axis in an outright military agreement. But all insisted that sympathies of the U. S. S. R. will remain on the side of the Axis and some predicted Stalin's sideline role will enable him to "reap the United States for moral meddling against Russia."

Speculation regarding Russian participation in the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo alliance was encouraged by refusal of the foreign office to confirm or deny rumors that Foreign Minister Von Ribbentrop would soon go to Moscow for an important conference with Soviet Premier Molotov.

Stress was placed upon the fact that Germany and Russia are already joined in a treaty of friendship and non-aggression, signed in August of last year just before the invasion of Poland
at the outbreak of war.

PROCLAMATION MADE PUBLIC BY BURGESS

Clifford L. Anderson Gives
Out Proclamation Received
From Governor

REGISTRATION OCT. 16TH

Burgess Clifford L. Anderson, today, made public a proclamation which he has just received from Arthur H.
James, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

The proclamation reads:
GOVERNOR'S OFFICE
PROCLAMATION

The Selective Training and Service
Act of 1940 was enacted by Congress on Saturday, September 14, 1940, and approved by the President of the United States on Monday, September 16, 1940.

Upon signing the Act, the President issued a Proclamation setting Wednesday, October 16th, as the date, under the Act, upon which the first registration of certain male citizens shall take place.

The Congress of the United States has determined that it is necessary to increase the armed forces of the United States. It becomes the duty of all Pennsylvanians, as citizens of the Commonwealth which gave to the Nation the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States, to respond as they always have done, in the traditional manner of their forefathers, to this summons for National Defense.

I call upon all the citizens of this Commonwealth to give liberally of their services, as well as those who are included in the Selective Service program, in the interest of protecting our Nation at home and abroad.

Our people will not hesitate, I feel certain, in voluntary participation, because the men who are to be called out for training are not only learning to defend the geographical boundaries of our Nation, but our very way of living.

Therefore, I, Arthur H. James, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in support of the President's

CONDITION OF CRASH VICTIM IS SERIOUS

Miss Helen Evans, 19, of New Hope, Has Skull Fracture,
Brain Concussion

THREE WERE KILLED

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 1.—The condition of Miss Helen Evans, 19, New Hope, one of those injured in the automobile crash on River Road at Yardley yesterday morning, when three men lost their lives, is reported as critical at Mercer Hospital, Trenton,
N. J.

The girl has a possible skull fracture, and brain concussion.

The second survivor, Frank Burck, New Hope, who was also injured, is improving according to hospital authorities. Burck was driver of the station in which the five were riding. He sustained a fracture of the skull also.

Those killed when the auto got out of control and crashed into a tree,
were Earl Winters, of New Hope; Frank Rath, of the Bronx, New York, and James McCoy, believed to be from Utica, Miss. The bodies were removed to a Newtown morgue.

Rath's body was later claimed by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Rath, of the Bronx. Winters' body was removed to the home of his parents in New Hope.

The party of five was homeward bound to New Hope after a night at a Trenton roller skating rink. The car is owned by Harvey A. Talbot, owner of the River House, near the New Hope artists' colony. The machine struck a tree in front of the home of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Welch, 25 feet from the Delaware River edge.

Welch and his wife, awakened by the crash, found Miss Evans staggering across the road and telephoned to Dr. R. J. Horwell, of Yardley.

Burck, Rath and McCoy, employees of the River House, took Winters and Miss Evans to Trenton as guests on a roller skating trip. Corporal R. D. Evans, of the Pennsylvania Motor Patrol, who investigated with Constable Thomas B. South, of Yardley, said the machine was traveling at the rate of 60 miles an hour when it crashed. Bur-ck is a chef's assistant at the River House.

The funeral of Winters will be held Thursday afternoon from his late home, South Main street, New Hope.
The Rev. Franklin Josselyn, pastor of New Hope Presbyterian Church, will officiate. Winters is survived by his wife, Ruth Winters, and two children, Earl and John; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Winters, and four brothers,
Miss Mabel Winters, and four brothers,
Levi, John and Lloyd, of New Hope, and Russell, Trenton. Interment will be at Upper Tinticum, Pa.

Rath was a waiter at the River House. Papers found in his effects indicated he came from Germany. His citizenship papers bore the name of Charles Brinner, the Bronx, as a reference.

Word of McCoy's death was sent to a Mrs. Mary Moore, at Utica, Miss.

Nearly A Perfect Individual

(By "The Stroller")

A few weeks ago in touring Cape Cod my attention was called to an inscription upon a tomb stone in an old graveyard at Mashpee. It read as follows with the names omitted:

Here lies interred the remains of ———, who having served his generation according to the will of God, died greatly lamented.

He sustained sundry places of honor and profit and it may justly be said of him that he was one of great abilities, very free in conversation and always ready to help the needy.

He is justly and truly lamented
by all that knew him and was an ornament to the Church till his death.

He was an obliging neighbor,
the faithful friend, the pleasant companion, the indulgent master,
the tender father, the affectionate husband and a friend to mankind
in general.

SPEEDING COSTS EXTRA

One of the most convincing arguments in favor of safe driving, so far as speed is concerned, is presented in a pamphlet issued by a large insurance company which shows that it costs 1.44 cents a mile to drive the average car under average conditions at 25 miles an hour, and when the speed is stepped up to 35 miles an hour it costs 1.79 cents a mile. It costs 2.2 cents a mile to drive at the rate of 45 miles an hour, 3.03 cents a mile at 55 miles an hour. And, incidentally, it costs 3.86 cents a mile to drive at 65 miles an hour.

The old proverb says that "time is money," but the average motorist may well stop and ask himself if his time is really worth as much as it costs to drive at a speed which is dangerous, and if it could be impressed upon the average motorist that the time he saves—provided he doesn't have an accident which causes him to lose much time and perhaps his life—costs more than he ever dreamed, perhaps he would slow down and save money as well as lives.

The table prepared by the insurance company is based upon a 1,000-mile journey in an average car and over average roads. The figures on gasoline and oil consumption and those on tire costs are based upon data furnished by well-known manufacturers of those products. Maintenance costs were developed from the records of a large fleet of more than 300 state-owned automobiles.

Assuming that a driver is taking an automobile trip of 1,000 miles, here is what he will lose or gain by driving at different speeds:

If he travels the whole distance at 35 miles an hour it will cost him $17.88 or 1.79 cents a mile—unless his car is run over by another car from the rear.

But suppose he steps on the gas and goes 45 miles an hour. He will save 64 hours in his 1,000-mile journey, but it will cost him an extra $4.15 or 65 cents an hour for every hour he saves.

If he exceeds the speed limit and goes 65 miles an hour he will save 13.2 hours, but it will cost him $20.75, or $1.75 for every hour he saves.

Are the minutes really as precious as that?

A Yale research shows that "how ever dominant by nature a male chimpanzee may be, a female may be found who can shape him to her will." So they make monkeys out of monkeys, too!

The New York aquarium attracted nearly 3,000,000 persons in one year. By this time the fish ought to have a fair idea how the average American looks.

A carnival in the South features a man who turns his head completely around. Possibly a refugee umpire, accustomed to keeping an eye on the play and one on the crowd.

"CUPID RIDES A BUS" by POLAN BANKS

CHAPTER XVIII
"I will so divorce him!" Ginger swore. "Just try and stop me!"
"Come on be reasonable," said Tony's father. "How much will you take—not a cent?"

"Not a darned cent!" cried Ginger. Suddenly a clock chimed, nearby. She thought of Miami, some seventy miles away, and her head-line. "I'm going, Mr. Taylor. Tell Tony I—"

"Martin!" he called. Suddenly the two men who had kidnapped her appeared in the doorway. "Stick around, boys." He turned to her. "I won't let you out of this house until you promise not to divorce my son!"

She stared from the old man to the detectives and back to him. The clock was still chiming. The only thing that mattered, at that moment, was getting to the Club Caribbean on time. Rony Rockaby must not succeed in his purpose, at any cost—he couldn't bear it. As for Tony, there was no chance of his wanting to stay married to her, after the way she had stolen the bus, and stranded him, helpless, in Georgia. Time was flying—his inspiration suddenly came to her.

"I'll promise—but on one condition."

"What's that?" Tony's father wanted to know.

"I've got to be in Miami by twelve o'clock noon, sharp. Help me get there!"

"Very well," said the old man. "Martin—get a police motor-cycle escort for my daughter-in-law. And see that Mrs. Taylor gets to Miami on time."

Five minutes later the double-decker green bus still wistfully heading for "Washington Square" rolled out of the porte-cochère, and rumbled down the ocean drive. . . .

With police sirens screaming, ahead of them, and excitement in her veins, Ginger watched the miles slip by until at last, they entered the environs of Miami. It was a wild, a heady journey.

The bus swept in and out of traffic on the heels of the motorcycles, and rolled up, at last, to the marquee of the Club Caribbean. It was ten minutes to twelve, and she had arrived at her goal just under the wire. Tired and excited but happy, Ginger hopped out onto the sidewalk.

A grinning, familiar face appeared as an impetuous hand clutched her arm; held her as she sought to pass.

"Ronny! What are you doing here?" she struggled. "Let me pass!"

"I flew down overnight," said the crooner. "You're not going in there, Ginger—I won't let you. You've got to let me get your marriage annulled—and marry me!"

"That's what you think," put in another voice. A familiar voice. "I promised you this, Crooner—and I never forget a promise!"

There was the spat of fist on jaw, and Rony Rockaby suddenly spun around and sat down with a thump on the sidewalk.

"Tony!" cried Ginger. "How did you get here?"

"Chartered a plane," grinned Tony. "And look who I brought along!" He stood aside, and Ginger gasped.

"Mr. Smoek and Miss Love!"

The lion-tamer and the actress smiled broadly at her. Mr. Smoek explained.

"When they found out their mistake and let us out of jail, we came and you."

"In a police car," said Desdemona. "We stole it."

"And we found Mr. Taylor in Georgia, and he identified himself at the air-field and chartered a plane," finished Daniel Smoek. "Is Casanova all right?"

"And they never did catch the Evergreens," added Miss Love. Her face grew anxious. "Where is my Gertrude?"

"They're both in the bus," said Ginger, still a bit dazed. Suddenly a whistle blew, and she knew it was noon. She gave a start and tried to push past them all. "It's twelve o'clock—I've got to go!"

"Of a sudden Tony grasped her, took her up in his arms, and turned to the bus. She kicked, wildly.

"Where are you taking me?"

"Where you belong," said Tony. "With your husband. I agreed to deliver you here—but I didn't agree to let you stay."

Her eyes were stormy.

"Put me down—and let me go!"

"I've decided I don't want a divorce, because I love you," said Anthony Taylor's son to the girl in his arms. "We're going to Palm Beach. I'm going to introduce you to Dad, and ask him for a job."

She still struggled, if with less enthusiasm, but Tony carried her bodily into the bus. Desdemona and the lion-tamer followed them in. Suddenly the actress screamed.

"The Bonkheer diamond!" He held aloft the glistering wet stone for all to see. "They hid it in the bowl!" He turned on Desdemona. "The reward—dear lady—you can claim it!"

Miss Love laid aside her righteous grief.

"Why, Daniel darling!"

Suddenly there came an unexpected interruption.

Mr. Briggs' legs followed by his body, came down the stair from the deck above; excitement was in his manner, and excitement in his voice. He was pointing through the nearest window at Biscayne Bay across the street. At a white yacht in Biscayne Bay. At the very largest white yacht, in fact, in all Biscayne Bay.

"The Little Casino," he croaked. "I've found her at last!"

They were all on the after-deck of the palatial yacht which had indeed turned out to be Mr. Briggs' Coast Guard cutter, the East Coast. Canoe for Lake Worth and Palm Beach. Mr. Briggs, very warm with an ice-bag on his head was growling as an obsequious steward approached with a portable bar. Mr. Briggs owned the ancestor of all hangers.

"Have a libation," said Mr. Briggs, feebly, to his guests, and groaned again, as he turned his face away from a proffered drink. He was a very discouraged man.

The lion-tamer was tenderly stroking Desdemona's hand. She was dressed appropriately in mourning; her Gertrude, she now felt, had died a martyr, so that her mistress might garner the reward for the Bonkheer diamond.

"And after we're married," Mr. Smoek was saying, "we're going to buy a snake-and-alligator farm, and settle down. Aren't we, my love?"

Desdemona smiled at her jungle man.

"We owe this all to the Evergreens, really," said she. "I do hope they turn over a new leaf, from now on. And be happy, like us, Daniel dear."

Ginger and Tony, leaning companionably against the rail, cheek to cheek, watching the Florida palmetto slip by, saw a steward approach, and put up a radio news flash on the bulletin board. He stepped aside, and they read it:

"LINDBERGH'S PLANE—
"SPIRIT OF ST. LOUIS"—
STOLEN IN BROAD DAYLIGHT
FROM SMITHSONIAN
MUSEUM"

Ginger and Tony looked at each other, and burst out laughing. . . . everybody—even the Evergreens—was happy.

THE END.

SECTION OF 1939
No. 1
A JOINT RESOLUTION

Proposing an amendment to article nine, section eight, of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Section 1. The following amendment to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania be, and the same is hereby, proposed, in accordance with the eighteenth article thereof:—

That article nine, section eight, of the Constitution of Pennsylvania is hereby amended to read as follows:—

Section 8. The debt of any city, borough, township or incorporated district, except as provided herein and in section eleven of this article, shall never exceed seven (7) per centum upon the average assessed value of the taxable realty therein for the ten years immediately preceding the time any debt is incurred or increased; and the debt of any county, other than Philadelphia, shall never exceed ten (10) per centum upon the average annual assessed value of the taxable realty therein for the ten years immediately preceding the time any debt is incurred or increased; and the debt of the City and County of Philadelphia shall never exceed twelve (12) per centum upon the average annual assessed value of the taxable realty therein for the ten years immediately preceding the time any debt is incurred or increased; nor shall any city, borough, township, school district or other municipality or incorporated district incur any new debt or increase its indebtedness to an amount exceeding two (2) per centum upon such average annual assessed valuation of taxable realty for the nine years immediately preceding years without the consent of the electors thereof at a public election in such manner as shall be provided by law.

In ascertaining the borrowing capacity of the City and County of Philadelphia at any time, there shall be deducted from such debt so much of the debt of said City and County as shall have been incurred or is about to be incurred and the proceeds thereof expended or about to be expended upon any public improvement or in the construction, purchase or condemnation of any public utility or part thereof or facility therefor, to the extent that such public improvement or public utility or part thereof, whether separately or in connection with any public improvement or public utility or part thereof, may be expected to yield revenue in excess of operating expenses sufficient to pay the interest and sinking fund charges thereon.

The method of determining such amount so to be deducted may be prescribed by the General Assembly.

In incurring indebtedness for any purpose, the City and County of Philadelphia may, in its obligations, maturing not later than fifty (50) years from date thereof, with provisions for a sinking fund sufficient to retire said obligations at maturity, the payment of such sinking fund to be in equal or graded annual or other periodical installments. DISTRICT SCHOOLBOY TEAMS ON WAY BACK AS GRID PLAY EXCELS OVER THAT OF 1939

Johnny Cole Pulled A 66-Yard Quick Kick Against the Giants
—Walt Wasiurki, Former Fallsington All-Conference Back, Won Another Ball Game By Rushing Extra Point Through.

(By JACK GILL)

Rubbing their eyes after a surprising week-end of football, the local chapter of the Monday Morning Quarterback Association had to be content with only a little bit of cynicism. Play for opening day wasn't as bad as that of 1939, when Lower Bucks football took a nosedive.

In all, it was one big mosquito bite that local ensembles took from New Jersey high schools. The two States hooked horns in a battle for states rights that made the Civil War look pale. At the finish, the adding machine tape, aided considerably by Langhorne, gave the nod to Jersey by a wide margin, 70 to 25.

Newtown, on Charley Darocha's placement boot, licked Flemington, 13-12. Bristol lost to Catholic by six points; Morrisville took it on the chin from Trenton High, 12-6; and Langhorne stopped off at Mt. Holly long enough to absorb a 40 to 0 trouncing.

Aside from those few defeats, district eleven didn't fare so poorly. Taking the teams apart, they didn't embarrass. Bristol could have won with any kind of breaks at all. Morrisville, grossly outclassed by Trenton, only had one first down to the opposition's nineteen, but the thirty-point rout of last year failed to materialize.

And Coach George Reimer's light Bensalem Owls are on top of the heap as the team of the week. Playing without the services of their ace all-conference back, Bobby Scarborough, they dumped Upper Merionide by a 12 to 0 count. Hard-running Henry Killian took up where his mate left off in the Blue backfield and played himself a lot of football.

Admitting that the better teams won in all contests, fans still stick to the assertion that the ball clubs are on their way back. None, with the exception of Langhorne, were outclassed. At the outset of the 1940 campaign, none knew what the other guy possessed. Relying mainly on last season's holdovers and the newcomers who "were expected to fill varsity holes," grid addicts gave Bensalem an even rating with Bristol and Morrisville, believing the two major schools of the conference to be in the same mood as they were a year ago.

Now they are not so sure that the Owls will be up there once again. One thing is certain, it won't take them long to find out. Bensalem and Bristol tangle Saturday. The Cards, on the rebound, are dreaming revenge. It's a safe bet that the Owls will not catch them unaware as they did in the opener at Cornwells Heights last fall.

Morrisville, heaviest team once again in the entire section, is currently featuring a better line and a couple of hard-running backs. That old end-around play, the sweep that made Jimmy Yeager look so hot, is once more starting to roll the Blue and Gold onward. Hulse, one of their standout backs, has looked great. Yet they sadly lack speed and a vital climax running type of back.

Between these three schools the conference championship action will center. Many fans, hopeful that Langhorne would once again rise to their former status of a fine small school representative, gave up when they heard the Mt. Holly massacre. Newtown, possessor of two good backs in Pidcock and Driver, can only be expected to give Bensalem trouble.

Noticeable in opening day play was the tight web-like defensive line play and the return to the running game. More air crazed than ever last year, the boys kept the ball on the ground over the past week-end.

Johnny Cole, Bristol boy whose backfield play has been overlooked in the trumpeting of Davey O'Brien, pulled a 66-yard quick kick against the Giants that rolled out of bounds on the four-yard line. —Walt Wasiurki, hard charging former Fallsington all-conference back, won another ball game by rushing the extra point through for Falls Alumni. —The ancient drop kick almost licked the South Langhorne Aces, but Tom Carney's score from the two-yard line defeated Holmesburg, 7-3. —Scarborough is expected to be ready for the Bristol tussle. —General consensus of local sport fans seems to favor the Tigers in the series. —Punkie Zeforles, Landreth short-stop, has been offered a contract by the Phillies to play ball with Wasau, Wisconsin, next year, in the Northern League. —He was scouted by both Jack Collins, of the Phils, and Ira Thomas, of the Athletics. —And speaking of scouts, John Hoffman, Morrisville coach, and George Reimer, Bensalem mentor, were interested spectators at the Catholic game.

LOCAL BOWLERS ENTER PENN-JERSEY LEAGUE

Local bowling enthusiasts will have an opportunity to see some of the best bowling teams in this section of the country in action at the local alleys this year. This was made possible with the entry of the Bristol Recreation Center team in the Penn-Jersey League, the fastest interstate league in this territory.

The local team will have one match game weekly, bowling at home every other week. Some of the teams in the League include the Frankford Majors, Bookbinders, and the star Luzerne team of Trenton, South Jersey Champions of 1939-40.

The entry of the Bristol Recreation team was made possible when the Reading team decided not to enter the League this year. The local team, the dark horse of the League, will be up against the stiffest of competition, but the league games that will be played locally will afford local spectators and bowling enthusiasts an opportunity to see topnotch teams in action.

The Great Game of Politics

The Government with respect to hemisphere defense, with particular reference to the commercial and cultural aspects of the problem.

THEY read further that the co-ordinator shall "review existing laws, co-ordinate research by the several Federal agencies, be charged with the formulation and execution of a program which by effective use of governmental and private facilities in such fields as the arts and sciences, education and travel, the radio, the press and the cinema, will further national defense and strengthen the bonds between the nations of the Western Hemisphere."

And, finally, they read that the co-ordinator "shall be responsible directly to the President, to whom he shall submit reports and recommendations with respect to the activities of his office."

THIS certainly sounded like big-league stuff, and while the Latin diplomats could not clearly understand what the co-ordinator was going to do, they were going to function in the broad and numerous fields thus designated, nevertheless the size of the title and the signing of the proclamation by six Cabinet officers and the President made them feel that Mr. Rockefeller was going to be a very important official indeed. Though they were unable to make much sense out of the proclamation, some of them got headaches trying.

THE fact that it required six Cabinet officers and Mr. Roosevelt himself combined to certify to the selection and explain the duties of Mr. Rockefeller naturally convinced them that, even though the wording of the proclamation seemed cloudy in the extreme, there must exist a very profound purpose somewhere behind the murky wording. Their first—and not unnatural—impression was that it would be necessary to take up all matters touching relations between their countries and the United States with the new co-ordinator.

FOR quite a few weeks they were in a state of uncertainty as to whether, in the future, Mr. Rockefeller was to be substituted for the State Department as well as the War, Navy and Commerce departments, so far as they were concerned. Certainly, it seemed indicated and they were prepared to adjust themselves to the new arrangement. However, the situation has now cleared. They have assured themselves—and been assured—that there has been no change.

THINGS, so far as they are concerned, are just as they were before the "Coordinator of Commercial and Cultural Relations Between the American Republics" was named. Their minds are relieved. They are again calm. It has been explained that the title, the bulletin, the signatures of the six Cabinet officers and the President, along with young Mr. Rockefeller himself, are just "window dressing." There is no reason to be perturbed. The Co-ordinator will not co-ordinate in a way to interfere. It is, of course, "window dressing," but it must be conceded it is the fanciest piece of window dressing that has been seen in a long time.

Proclamation on Registration, and in accordance with the Selective Service program, do hereby proclaim Wednesday, the sixteenth day of October, 1940, as Registration Day.

On Registration Day, between the hours of 7 a. m. and 9 p. m., every male person, other than persons excepted by Section 5 (A) of the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940, "who is a citizen of the United States or an alien residing in the United States and who, on the registration date fixed herein, has attained the 21st anniversary of the day of his birth and has not attained the 36th anniversary of the day of his birth is required to present himself for and submit to registration."

Every such person who is within the continental United States on the registration date fixed herein shall on that date present himself for and submit to registration at the duly designated place of registration within the precinct, district, or registration area in which he has his permanent home or in which he may happen to be on that date. Every such person who is not within the continental United States on the registration date fixed herein shall within five days after his return to the continental United States present himself for and submit to registration. Regulations will be prescribed hereafter providing for special registration of those who on account of sickness or other causes beyond their control are unable to present themselves for registration at the designated places of registration on the registration date fixed herein.

Every Pennsylvanian subject to registration is required to familiarize himself with the rules and regulations governing registration and to comply therewith.

I hereby direct all officials, State, County, City, Borough and Township, of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and employees thereof to do and perform all acts and services necessary to accomplish effective and complete registration.

To accomplish the objectives of this program with expeditious dispatch, I especially call upon all election officials to offer their services as members of the boards of registration and to provide suitable and sufficient places for the performance of this duty. I ask our patriotic citizens to offer their services as members of these boards, where necessary.

It will be necessary, because of the size of the task to be undertaken by our election officials in this registration, for many of those who will be registered to have time off from their occupations and places of employment. Therefore, I call upon all employers, whether private or public, to give their employees sufficient time off to fulfill this obligation under the law.

It is my firm conviction that Pennsylvania will set a record, not only in compliance with the law, but in accord with the voluntary spirit of helpfulness which is necessary.

Pennsylvanians have always led the way in the past and have never, at any time, relinquished that leadership. It is pleasing to announce that Pennsylvania has already shown its patriotism by offers of volunteer service which have come to us from all parts of the Commonwealth.

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State, at the City of Harrisburg, this eighteenth day of September, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and forty, and of the Commonwealth the one hundred and sixty-fifth.

ARTHUR H. JAMES

S. M. R. O'HARA,

The celebration is not to be confined to Bristol alone, but all of the surrounding community is invited to join in. Organizations in Edgely, South Langhorne, Tullytown, Edginton, Cornwells Heights and the various other communities are urged to become a part of the affair. They are invited to send representatives to the meeting to be held Monday evening.

The appointment of sub-committees was not made last night but they will be appointed on Monday evening.

A new plan for judging the contestants was discussed and while not definitely adopted it was agreed that such a plan as was proposed will be given consideration by the general committee.

There is every indication that the celebration, this year, will exceed that of two years ago.

An official announcement said Sener "conferred cordially" with Sener for an hour and a half.

THE LIGHT THAT NEVER FAILS AMERICANS

Today you know more of world affairs and the affairs of your own country than any other people. For there are no gags on INS, AP and UP, the press associations serving the American newspapers. Everywhere, they have Americans waiting, watching, observing, interviewing, reporting, writing, cabling and telegraphing the news—obliterating time and space to make Americans the best informed people on earth. Nobody is big enough or strong enough to deny the press of this country. The American press, with its rights firm in the basic structures of our government, is big enough, and strong enough, and good enough—so it doesn't have to print propaganda, pro-government or pro-anything; so it doesn't have to protect anybody's interest but YOURS—the Reader of the American Newspaper.
